Policy Statement: RoHS Directive

October 2007

European Directive 2002/95/EC dealing with the restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment (the "RoHS Directive")

Dear Customer,

I felt it necessary and important to state Sierra's position on the RoHS Directive as Sierra supplies products that fall within category 9 (monitoring and control equipment) of the European Directive 2002/96/EC on waste electrical and electronic equipment (the "WEEE Directive"). Pursuant to Article 2 (1) of the European Directive 2002/95/EC on the restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment (the "RoHS Directive"), the RoHS Directive does not apply to electrical and electronic equipment that falls within category 9 (monitoring and control equipment) of the WEEE Directive.

As such, the products that are supplied by Sierra are not subject to the requirements of the RoHS Directive. However, as new products are released, Sierra will make best efforts to voluntarily design RoHS compliant components as a matter of our company's overall environmental responsibility.

Sincerely,

Matthew J. Olin
President
